

HOME CIRCLES:

An Experiential Event

Abstract

There are many reasons for people to come together for circles. Some of them come together simply to check in on their loved ones, or to see what is going to happen to them tomorrow. But there are those, and we wish that to be this with you, to come together to learn.

Phillip Falcone

FirstChurchofPrayer@gmail.com

There are many reasons for people to come together for circles. Some of them come together simply to check in on their loved ones, or to see what is going to happen to them tomorrow. But there are those, and we wish that to be this with you, to come together to learn. We have so much we can teach you. You only have to be open to it.

The circle is like family. Families gather together for social support, to share experiences, and to strengthen their bonds with each other. The same is true in those gatherings of like-minded people for the purpose of communing with souls, to gain insights, develop new bonds of friendships, and to share and deepen their experiences with each other. The séance and circle are similar with possibly one exception. The circle is more of an intimate gathering, a sharing of information for the express purpose of understanding the life experience. When we come together to learn, it is because we have opened ourselves to something more than the daily distractions of the world.

The reason why we encourage this circle is because there is more energy there. Not all days you harmonize the same as each other, but you will come together and harmonize nevertheless, and the one who is open, that is the one who will receive the information for you.

In the séance, those gathered are often disarrayed in their thoughts, focused on hearing something from loved ones who have gone ahead. In the circle, the attendees are more in line with their thoughts. Their minds are often directed towards learning about how they can improve their life, knowing that preparations for the afterlife begin now. Most will seek to discover what their destination will be like to their expectations will be in line with potential events.

The souls that choose to teach will come through the one who is best prepared to receive them. In the past, the circle was where Mediums developed their skill, gaining experience. Thus, it is the more experienced Medium souls speak through, though this does not preclude any other attendees from also being impressed.

Just as this one [the Medium] likes to read the information from others in the past, our old students and you too can become one of our students. We seek this because there is so much [to teach].

The Spiritualist who desires to commune with those souls in other realms must prepare themselves in a variety of ways. Those progressive souls, those teachers, choose to mingle with those who also seek to learn, because together the Medium and the soul continue their advancement.<sup>1</sup> No Medium should remain ignorant or refrain from the desire for knowledge and self-improvement.<sup>2</sup>

Your world is not up in arms. Your world is going through changes, and these changes...it's like birthing a child. And this is why many of our mediums that we come through are female because they know what it is like to birth a child. The agony that goes with it and the beauty that comes forth.

At the time of this session, there was social and political discord nationally and globally. When a mother goes into labor, she often experiences great distress, anxiety, and often seeks reassurance and support. This may be what is happening. There is something new struggling to be revealed, struggling to come forth. Through the chaos we may witness, something worthwhile comes forth. Patience is required.

And we will close this session, but we will await you again.

References

Edmonds, J. W., & Dexter, G. T. (1853). Spiritualism. New York: Partridge & Brittan, Pub.

Longley, M. T. (1908). Teachings and Illustrations as They Emanate From the Spirit World.

Chicago: The Progressive Thinker Publishing House.

Wallis, E. W., & Wallis, M. H. (no date). A Guide to Mediumship and Psychological Unfoldment.

Chicago, IL, United States: The Occult Publishing House.

---

<sup>1</sup> (Longley, 1908)

<sup>2</sup> (Wallis & Wallis, no date)

